From the Burlington Hawkeye.]

We were at a railroad junction one night last w ek waiting a few hours for a train, in the waiting-room, in the only rocking-chair, trying to talk a brown-eyed boy to sleep, who talks a great deal when he wants to keep agreed the state of the stat awake. Presently a freight train arrived, and a beautiful little old woman came in, escorted by a great big German, and they talked in German, he giving her evidently lots of information about the route she was going, her baggage check, and occasionally patting her on the arm. At first our patting her on the arm. At first our United States baby, who did not un-derstand German, was tickled to hear them talk, and he "snickered" at the peculiar sound of the language that was being spoken. The great big man put his hand up to the good old lady's cheek and said something encouraging, and a great big tear came to her eye, and she looked as happy as queen. The little brown eyes of the boy opened pretty big, and his face sobered down from its laugh, and he said "Papa, it is his mother!" We knew it was, but how should a 4-year old sleepy baby, that couldn't understand German, tell the the lady was the big man's mother, and we asked him how he knew, and he said, "Oh, the big man was so kind to her." The big man bustled out, we gave the rocking chair was so kind to her." The big man bustled out, we gave the rocking chair to the little old mother, and presently the man came in with a baggage man, and to him he spoke English. He said: "This is my mother, and she does not speak English. She is going to Iowa, and I have got to go back on the next train, but I want you to strend to her baggage, and see her on attend to her baggage, and see her on the right ear, the rear car, with a good Boarding and Day School Institute seat near the center, and tell the conductor she's my mother. And here is a dollar for you, and I will do as much for your mother some time." The baggage man grasped the dellar with one hand and grasped the big man's hand with the other, and looked at the little German with an expression and we almost know the old lady was well treated. Then we put the sleep-ing mind-reader on a bench and went ing mind-reader on a bench and went out on the platform and got acquainted with the big German, and he talked of horse-trading, buying and selling, and everything that showed he was a live business man, ready for any speculation, from buying a yearling colt to a crop of hops or barley, and that his life was a busy one and at times full of hard work, disappointment, hard roads; but with all of his hurry and excitement he was kind to his mother, and we loved him just a little and excitement he was kind to his mother, and we loved him just a little, and when, after a few minutes' talk about business, he said: "You must excuse me; I must go in the depot and see if my mother wants anything," we felt like taking his fat red hand and kissing it. Oh! the love of the mother is the same in any language, and it is we believe this to be the case in the matter of the late election returns. They show the importance of Santa Ana to better advantage, probably, than any factors could do, and will do more to convince some people of our wonderful growth. The official returns show that Santa Ana cast 458 votes, within 16 votes as much as Apa. It is said that figures won't lie, and we believe this to be the case in the votes, within 16 votes as much as Anaheim and Downey combined. These two latter places having cast 474 votes.
